

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dare to Dance! So You Think You Can Dance Dancers Dominic & Hok want to help Alaska's kids.

Dare to Care and local dance studio, Underground Dance Company, are holding a dance workshop fundraiser to benefit Dare to Care on June (/h, 'J'h & If - taught by So You Think You Can Dance (SYTYCD): Season 3 stars Dominic Sandoval and Hok Konishi.

The 3 day workshop will wrap with a Showcase the evening of the 8th for the participants to show off what they learned - and for (SYTYCD) dancers, Dominic and Hok to perform their moves!

Local kids, ages 10 to 18, and adults will get the chance to dance on stage with the pros - and get an opportunity to meet and get photos with Dominic and Hok.

The Dare to Dance workshop will be held at West High Auditorium on Friday June 6th and Saturday, June 7th. The third day of the workshop and the Showcase will be held at Bartlett Auditorium on Sunday, June 8th.

Cost for the workshop is $150 which includes an event t-shirt. Cost for tickets to the Showcase are $20 each. Registration and tickets are available at Alaska Dancers Emporium next to the Alask State Troopers Museum on 5th Avenue - or on-line at www.NoChildGoesHungry.org.

All funds raised from this event will benefit the Dare to Care program and help feed children in our schools.

Dare to Care, Inc. is dedicated to ensuring that no child goes hungry in our schools. Dare to Care facilitates private, corporate, and individual funding to provide breakfast and lunch to children-in-need identified by school personnel. Currently there are over one thousand children identified by The Student Nutrition Department of the Anchorage School District who need this program.
